

Serving Abandoned and Orphaned Children in Mexico

Since 1966

March 2014

Education for ALL Children should be a RIGHT

Making sure that abandoned and orphaned children have a safe place to live and food to eat is important, and there are organizations that focus on those needs.

Caring Action for Children takes it a step beyond...without a good education, these children will grow up in the same rough situation their parents came from, and the cycle of poverty will continue. Caring Action makes sure that each child and young person in our Homes receives a quality education....from preschool age through college. Our children graduate and find positions as nurses, attorneys, engineers, teachers, and in many other fields. They then take their place in society and work to make it better. Many of them come back to the Home and serve on their board of directors, mentor the current students, and offer assistance to the houseparents out of gratitude.

What is needed to keep these kids in school?

1. Uniforms, including shirts, pants, jumpers, skirts, shoes, socks and jackets. This is quite an expense for those overseeing the Homes to come up with, but in Mexico, all schools require uniforms in order to attend.
2. School books. Textbooks must be purchased, and a good library of books be available for homework and fun reading, such as the library recently built and stocked with good children's books at The Shelter in Monterrey.

Your donations go directly to the Childrens Homes—thank you for your continued support, month after month.

Don't have a donation envelope? You don't need one! Go to our website and donate through PayPal.
